M'CANDLESS MAY SEEK TO STOP SALE

The sale of the right to construct and maintain tunnels and to take water from government lands in Waiholes, Koolau, and Koolau, has been advertised for January 20, 1912, thus setting the date for the expected disposal of the license to the Oahu Sugar Company.

After many conferences with the governor and other officials connected with the matter, the attorneys for the Oahu company succeeded in making suitable arrangements for the supplying of the plantation with a big water supply which is to be brought through the Koolau range at a cost of over a million dollars. This will mean a source of pure water just as long as the underground supply from which the water comes lasts.

When the auctioneer asks for bids on January 20 it is not likely that there will be any opposition, as the terms of the sale are practically prohibitive. An upset price of $3.50 per million gallons has been placed on the water, and fifteen million gallons may be taken each day. The successful bidder will be required to deposit a certificate of deposit with a bank doing business in this Territory for $10,000. With this deposit it is to be a guarantee that the license will be executed within ten days after the sale or else the amount will be forfeited.

There were rumors today that L. L. McCandless, who claims certain of the water rights to be granted by this sale, will start an injunction suit to prevent the rights from being disposed of. The reports could not be verified. In the lack of confirmation from either McCandless or his attorneys.

PERSONALITIES

INTERPRETER CHANG CHAU of the Police Court said this morning that England and Japan should keep their hands off China. He believes it is not their business to butt-in.

JOHN FERRARA, Deputy Sheriff of Wailuku, Maui, is in town, having arrived this morning in the Manna Koa. He came down on business, and will return next Tuesday morning to Maui.

Weather conditions along the Hamakua coast was the cause of much delay in the discharging of freight carried by the steamer Maui. This vessel returned to port this morning with seventy-four head cattle and a quantity of supplies. A heavy swell was reported running along the Hamakua coast according to Purser Fitzsimmons. Better weather was met on the homeward voyage.
